

Table of Contents

Introduction	1
Barbara Puschmann-Nalenz & Brigitte Johanna Glaser
I. The Political Side of Loss
Loss and the Nation in David Mitchell's Black Swan Green Gerd Bayer	15
Making up for Loss of Child: Ambivalences and Alternative Concepts of Mother-/Parenthood in J.M. Coetzee's Age of Iron Christiane Maria Binder	27
Surviving Loss in Contemporary Anglophone Narratives on Bulgaria Anja Müller	45
Mourning and Waiting: Nadeem Aslam's Maps for Lost Lovers Peter Childs	59
Memory, Migration, and Transnational Encounters in Jane Urquhart's Sanctuary Line Eleanor Ty	71
II. Historical Loss and the Present
Emplotting Historical Trauma: Multiperspectivity in Contemporary Historical Fiction in North America Jutta Zimmermann	83
"Soldiers, from the War Returning": Private and Public Discourses of Loss in Pat Barker's Another World Silvia Mergenthal	107
Dark Histories of the Soul: Loss and Haunting in Michèle Roberts's Daughters of the House María Jesús Martínez-Alfaro	123

III. Motifs of Loss

“At times it feels as if life is the greatest loser”: Old Age, Death and Grief in Julian Barnes’s Later Works 141

Heike Hartung

Lost at Sea: Mourning, Melancholia and Maritime Mindscapes
in Early 21st-Century British and Irish Fiction 161

Anne-Julia Zwierlein

The Figure of the Orphan in Contemporary Fiction 179

Barbara Puschmann-Nalenz

Goodness Lost: Nick Hornby’s How to be Good and Carol Shields’s Unless 203

Anca-Raluca Radu

IV. Loss and Intertextual Relations

Ghosts, Texts, Phantom Texts: McEwan’s Saturday and Joyce’s “The Dead” 223

Jean-Michel Ganteau

“...no sign at all”: Loss in John Banville’s Eclipse, Shroud and Ancient Light 239

Ralf Haekel

The Art of Losing: A Reading of “Simon’s Luck” by Alice Munro 255

Burkhard Niederhoff

V. Changing the Form

“The Art of Losing”: Elegiac Quest in Paul Auster’s The Invention of Solitude 271

Jutta Ernst

Loss, Melancholy and Memory in W.G. Sebald’s The Emigrants 293

Susana Onega

Graphic Grief 309

Dirk Vanderbeke

Biographical Notes 327